

UNIVERSITY OF GEORGIA

Hugh Hodgson School of Music Academic Professional in Sound Recording & Production

The Hugh Hodgson School of Music at the University of Georgia seeks a Sound Recording and Production technician for a full-time, non-tenure track faculty appointment. Salary will be commensurate with credentials, experience, and reputation. The appointment start date is anticipated for January 2022.

QUALIFICATIONS

- Doctorate or master's degree in sound recording or related field, plus a minimum of two years of professional experience in sound recording or a related field with demonstrated experience in all aspects of sound recording, mastering, studio work, and media production and demonstrated experience in recording performances covering a wide range of genres and settings (including but not limited to soloists, chamber groups, and large ensembles).
- Candidates without a terminal degree must have a bachelor's degree, document exceptional professional expertise (a minimum of five years of professional experience in the field of recording in areas as noted above) and be approved for a terminal degree exception before hire.
- Understanding of and ability to teach relevant courses in sound and recording. Supervision of participants in the Internship Program. Ability to manage and maintain relevant technology. Willingness and desire to contribute and collaborate within a dynamic, holistic, inclusive music program located in a city known for its music and arts culture.
- Knowledge of video production and media streaming desired.
- Background in studio and live multi-track recording and production is preferred.

RESPONSIBILITIES

- Work as one of two sound-recording engineers for the Hodgson School of Music, co-managing the recording, mixing, editing, mastering, distribution, and archiving of all recitals, ensembles, guest artists, commercial session recordings, and events recorded for national broadcast.
- Teach basic courses and co-supervise the Audio/Video Recording Internship Program. Subjects include but are not limited to: Live and studio recording/mixing, microphones and mic techniques, digital audio networks, signal processing, and media formats.
- Co-supervise video streaming and production.
- Co-supervise the management of technical equipment and facilities for the school.
- Co-supervise with special projects for the Hodgson School.

TO APPLY

Applications will be reviewed beginning Oct 15, 2021, until the position is filled. Applicants should include a curriculum vitae/resume and cover letter describing their qualifications and professional experience, along with details on how they will add value to the program. The cover letter should show how the candidate's work has supported the success of those from racial, ethnic, and gender backgrounds that are underrepresented in the field. Applicants who have not yet had those experiences should explain how their work will further the College's commitment to diversity. Application materials should also include links to an online portfolio or website highlighting artistic works and the names and contact information for a minimum of three references.

Reference letters and academic transcripts may be requested later in the search process, along with additional materials.

Application documents must be uploaded to this UGAJobs link:

<https://www.ugajobsearch.com/postings/220453>

To ensure full consideration, please apply by Oct. 15, 2021. Questions about the application process can be directed to Edith Hollander (somadmin@uga.edu or 706-542-32701); questions about the position can be directed to Josh Bynum (jbynum@uga.edu). Persons needing accommodations or assistance with the accessibility of materials related to this search are encouraged to contact Central HR (hrweb@uga.edu). Please do not contact the department or search committee with such requests.

The Hugh Hodgson School of Music (www.music.uga.edu) is among the leading schools of music in the region and nationally. It includes comprehensive programs, with degrees at the undergraduate level through the masters and doctorate. A celebrated faculty, outstanding facilities, and talented students build a supportive and rich environment for artistic and scholarly growth. Graduates from our programs have been internationally successful in their chosen fields.

The University of Georgia (UGA), a land-grant and sea-grant university with statewide commitments and responsibilities, is the state's oldest, most comprehensive, and most diversified institution of higher education (<https://www.uga.edu/>). UGA is currently ranked among the top 15 public universities in U.S. News & World Report. The University's main campus is located in Athens, approximately 65 miles northeast of Atlanta, with extended campuses in Atlanta, Griffin, Gwinnett, and Tifton. UGA was founded in 1785 by the Georgia General Assembly as the first state-chartered University in the country. UGA employs approximately 1,800 full-time instructional faculty and more than 7,700 full-time staff. The University's enrollment exceeds 39,000 students including over 30,000 undergraduates and over 9,000 graduate and professional students. Academic programs reside in 18 schools and colleges, as well as a medical partnership with Augusta University housed on the UGA Health Sciences Campus in Athens.

The Franklin College of Arts and Sciences, its many units, and the University of Georgia are committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty and students and sustaining a work and learning environment that is inclusive. Women, minorities, and people with disabilities are encouraged to apply.

The University of Georgia is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, national origin, ethnicity, age, genetic information, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, or protected veteran status.